Milestones in the Life of a School
Dear Alumni and Friends,

As my first full year as dean draws to a close, I’m amazed when I look back over the past twelve months. In such a short time, we’ve had many exciting developments here at the School, not the least of which has been the kick-off of our 50th anniversary celebration. With a new addition to our Biobehavioral Laboratory underway, a top-five ranking for our graduate programs, and a faculty and student body that continues to win honors and awards, we have much to celebrate.

None of this would be possible without you. In this special issue, dedicated to the accomplishments of fifty years of nursing at Carolina, it gives me great pleasure to share with you the names of each and every donor who has contributed to the School of Nursing during the past year.

As I travel across the state this summer and fall, I would love to personally thank all of our alumni and friends who have contributed to our success. It is your support that helps us meet our goals to provide an outstanding education for students, to conduct research that improves health care for us all, and to perform much-needed service in our community and state.

If you live outside of North Carolina or are unable to visit with me when I’m in your area of the state, perhaps I will have the opportunity to meet you at our Gala Weekend in November. I hope you will join us at some or all of the special events honoring our past and anticipating our future.

As always, please know that your gift to the School is appreciated. On behalf of all of the faculty and students, I sincerely and gratefully acknowledge your efforts.

Professor Martha Henderson was appointed to the Nursing Leadership Academy for End of Life Care in May. The Academy is comprised of 50 professional nursing organizations working together to implement organizational initiatives related to end-of-life care. Professor Henderson will represent the American College of Nurse Practitioners.

In February, Chip Bailey, a doctoral student, and his faculty mentor, Professor Judy Miller, won $2,500 and $500, respectively, to implement Chip's proposal to apply research to the teaching of undergraduate students about the care of men with prostate cancer. Chip's proposal is titled “Integration of Advanced Nursing Knowledge” and his work will be presented next year.

With the assistance of Professor Carol Durham, BSN graduate Will Corcoran’s (’08) honors project was published in the Spring 2000 issue of Quality Management in Health Care. The title of Will’s project is “Quality of Life as an Outcome-based Evaluation of Coronary Artery Bypass Graft Critical Paths using the SF-36.” Professor Durham served as Will’s reader and advisor on the project, and aided him in the publication process.

Dean Linda Cronenwett, Professor Margaret Miles and Professor Linda Beeber were invited to Gritton, North Carolina, to meet the Tar Heel Bus Tour when it stopped in the Hurricane Floyd-ravaged town. The three told Bus Tour participants (new faculty and staff of the University) about the SON’s virtual adoption of Gritton following Hurricane Floyd. Twenty faculty members, eight staff members and more than 40 students assisted in recovery efforts there. The SON continues to assist the people of Gritton.

BSN student Alan Novotny (’01) was selected in March as one of 20 Fuld Fellows for the year 2000. He is the first UNC-CH nursing student ever chosen for this fellowship, which draws student applicants from diploma, associate and baccalaureate degree programs nationwide.

In February, PhD student Elizabeth Van Horn won 1st place honors in the graduate student poster session at the Southern Nursing Research Society’s annual conference in Little Rock, Arkansas. Her poster was titled “Recovery from Traumatic Injury: A Qualitative Nursing Research Review.” Elizabeth received $100, a research book, and a renewal of her SNRS membership for 2001.

Nursing Students go to Washington

Before graduating in May, inseparable BSN seniors Ann LaVeck, Sara Little, Kathryn Parker, Lyn Rodgers, Eileen Tran and Eric Wolak traveled to Washington, D.C. to meet with Rep. David Price and Connie Mullinix ’69 (BSN), then interim chief operating officer for ANA. The students made the trip in order to learn more about the role nurses play in shaping health care policy — and as an ingenious device to avoid writing a final paper for Professor Betty Woodard’s nursing ethics course. The students actually got more than they bargained for. Not only did they learn about the benefits of an active interest in politics, Professor Woodard asked them to build a website and present their trip to the other members of the class. Visit the link at http://www.unc.edu/courses/nursing/nurs092/.
On May 18, 2000, NCNA District 11 honored the SON for participating in the Linkages Mentoring Program. This program is a new initiative matching BSN students with SON alumni who are members of NCNA. SON is one of three schools participating, and each was honored at the gala. Professor Linda Brown accepted the plaque on the SON's behalf.

Professor Judy Miller received an outstanding honor in February when she was selected to receive one of five Tanner Awards for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching. This prestigious award is bestowed upon faculty of the University who exhibit exceptional dedication to teaching within their respective fields. In addition to the receipt of a significant monetary award, Professor Miller was honored at a banquet in April.

SON registrar Janice Payne, a staff member for 27 years, was selected as the 2000 Outstanding Staff Member of the Year. Payne's accomplishments, dedication and timeliness of her work were cited by her nominators, as well as her "invaluable" service to the SON.

Professor Diane Kjervik was selected in July to direct the new UNC-CH Women's Center. Professor Kjervik, who recently ended her tenure as associate dean for community outreach and practice, will divide her time between the SON and the new center.

A group of SON students who traveled to Grifton to assist in the School's Hurricane Floyd relief effort have had their experiences published in the April issue of Insight Out, the UNC-Chapel Hill journal of service learning. The students provided Grifton residents with counseling as a part of Professor Linda Beeber's Nursing Care of Clients with Mental Health Problems (N75) course. Jennifer Ballard Squires (BSN '00) synthesized the students' experiences into the article, titled "Reflections on a Crisis." Read the story online at www.med.unc.edu/wrkunits/orgs/insightout/welcome.htm.

SON students inducted into Sigma Theta Tau, International

On April 30, 79 students from the SON and the UNC-CH School of Public Health, as well as community leaders, were inducted into the Alpha Alpha Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau. The inductees included 49 BSN students, 8 RN-BSN students, 14 graduate students, and 7 community nurse leaders. Invitations to membership are extended to selected undergraduate and graduate students, faculty members and nurses in the community with baccalaureate or higher degrees based on academic performance and service to the profession.

Dear Friends,

As I reflect upon my term as President of the SON Alumni Association, I must confess some surprise at the many changes that have taken place at Carolina and at the School since I took office: New chancellor, new basketball coach, new dean. New look and name to this publication. New 5th place national ranking for our graduate programs, new logo, new website and new online alumni directory. Before too long — a new building addition.

While so much change can be dizzying, it is exhilarating, too. All of these changes have one thing in common and ironically, that thing hearkens back to something that has never changed—the School of Nursing’s unswerving commitment to excellence. As you can see in the following timeline of the School’s history and its accomplishments, the SON has charted a course of setting ever higher standards and goals each time one is met.

As alumni, we have much to be proud of. We are an integral part of a great tradition. When we graduated, we were the results of an educational process renowned for its quality. With our diplomas, we were given a share in the School’s reputation that we could take with us into our careers. Today, as alumni, we are contributors to that process and help maintain the eminence of the SON’s reputation. Our skill in our profession, our gifts of time, energy and money to the School and its current and future scholars work together powerfully to advance not only the School, but nursing, as well.

I hope the following pages instill the same pride in you that they have in me. Clearly, we have all been a part of something extraordinary. Let me encourage you now to continue your association with the School in any way you can. Numbering over 5,000, we make up a considerable group and a powerful force to help the School achieve its goals in the future.

It has been my pleasure to serve you as President of your Association. I thank you for the opportunity and hope to see many of you when we celebrate in November.

Warmest regards,

Francine D. Davis ’72 (BSN)

TIMELINE 1950–2000

1945–1949
- Elizabeth Scott Carrington campaigns for the SON.

1950
- School chartered.
- Elizabeth Louanna Kemble is appointed the first dean.
- The first class of 27 students is admitted.

1951
- The first class of 27 students is admitted.

1952
- The undergraduate program is approved by the State Board of Nursing, with continuous approval since then.
- “Mrs. Carrington’s Committee” is formed to assist the SON with recruiting and fund raising. The Committee will eventually become the School of Nursing Foundation.

1953
- Dorothy Ketner becomes the first RN to receive a BSN degree.
- The first RN student is admitted to the RN-to-BSN program.

1954
- The School gets its first research grant from the U.S. Public Health Service.
- The nurses’ dormitory is completed.

1955
- The SON is granted full accreditation by The National League for Nursing. It is the first school in the state and one of the few in the South to be accredited.
- The first class graduates, and each student passes the state nursing boards.
- Dorothy Ketner becomes the first RN to receive a BSN degree.
- The Alumni Association is formed; Martha Yount Cline is elected first president.
- The School gets its first research grant from the U.S. Public Health Service.
- The nurses’ dormitory is completed.

A special thanks to Professor Cynthia M. Freund (Dean, 1992-1999) for compiling the Timeline.
1960
The School of Nursing receives a Sigma Theta Tau charter as the Alpha Alpha chapter.

1961
The first Alumni Day is held on November 9, 1961.

1962
Audrey Booth, the first master’s student, graduates.

1964
The Office of Continuing Education is established. It is the nation’s first such program housed in a state university.

1966
$1.1 million in federal funds are received to build a new School of Nursing (now Carrington Hall).

1968
Groundbreaking for Carrington Hall

1968
Research Development Grant funded for five years.

1969
Lucy H. Conant is appointed dean.

1970
Carrington Hall is dedicated. 250 guests are expected; 400 attend the celebration.

1971
The pilot FNP program is started; it is one of the first three FNP programs in the country.

1971
Mrs. Carrington’s Committee becomes an autonomous “Advisory Committee to the School of Nursing.”

1971
The Graduate Student Action Body (GSAB) is chartered.

Forty-five years vanished in a few quick moments as members of the Class of 1955, the SON’s first graduating class, greeted one another at a reunion luncheon in May. The luncheon kicked off several days of reunion activities planned in conjunction with the General Alumni Association’s pan-University Reunion Weekend.

With a few family members and friends, seven of the original seventeen classmates attended the reunion, including Joy Smith Burton, Martha Yount Cline, Winnie Williams Cotton, Bette Leon Davis, Mary Anderson Leggett, Janet Meritt Littlejohn and Martha Yount Cline. All agreed that despite the many changes in the nursing profession and in the School of Nursing itself, it hardly seemed possible that 45 years had passed since they received their diplomas and pins.

Following the kickoff luncheon on Friday during which they were able to do some catching up, all seven classmates returned on Saturday for a tea hosted by Dean Cronenwett and the SON Alumni Association. Reminiscent of the teas hosted by Dean Elizabeth Kemble in the early years of the School of Nursing, this tea was held in the North Parlor of the Carolina Inn.

Spurred on by scrapbooks and photograph albums chronicling their student experience, the classmates regaled one another and members of the SON’s administration with stories of the School’s early days. Tales of life as Carolina’s first on-campus freshmen women and as the first class of student nurses met with wonder and, often, peals of laughter.

“IT was a wonderful weekend,” exclaimed class member Bette Davis. “As usual, we had fun seeing each other again and can hardly wait for the November reunion.”

Well, Bette, we can hardly wait, too. See you then!
A Thank You from Grifton

(From Betty Howes, Grifton Community Leader, January 6, 2000)

Dear School of Nursing Faculty and Students,

Our town shall forever be in your debt for all the wonderful, caring work so many of you have done in Grifton. It is most difficult for me to express our gratitude.

Frank still spends a lot of time at Slow's getting building materials. Miss Mabel Baker and Walter Davis are back in their repaired homes. The FEMA Park has about 74 campers now. Living is very cramped in this cold weather.

We continue to be busy and miss ALL of you! I don’t know what impressed us more — the faculty OR the students. Anyway, I have high hopes for all of you.

Survivors are much into the disillusionment phase of recovery now. FEMA didn’t meet expectations. We still have much to do (note only 30 of 300 damaged homes have been restored to date).

Remember us in your thoughts and prayers. Also, the welcome mat is out for you anytime.

Much love and affection,

Betty Howes

PS. I gave all the students “A”s.

In a photo taken on the day she graduated from the School of Nursing, Ruth smiles proudly. She is standing still, but one foot is placed carefully in front of the other, as if she might step out of the photograph at any moment. The tassel on her mortarboard flutters — she's about to take off.

Like her picture, movement characterizes Ruth's distinguished nursing career. Receiving her MSN at the SON was one of many stops along the way. The Jacksonville, Florida native's interest in nursing began just before she finished high school, when a special teacher wanted to make sure Ruth continued her education. "This teacher was a mentor to me without even really realizing it," said Ruth. "She suggested that I go to Florida A&M University." Ruth's excellent grades convinced her teacher, Lucille Coleman, that Ruth would make an ideal nurse.

Ruth took Coleman's advice, and in 1950 she enrolled at FAMU (which was then known as Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College), where she soon found another mentor in the dean of the nursing school, Elizabeth Carnegie's talent for administration and the respect given to her by faculty impressed Ruth, who had a position in Carnegie's office as a work-study student. Because of Dean Carnegie, Ruth decided that she wanted to teach.

"I was surrounded by role models who were black and who had made educational advancement, and I wanted to do so, too. And I wanted a school that was very good... I chose Chapel Hill."

Ruth Anderson Stephens (MSN ’65)

After receiving her BSN in 1954, Ruth practiced for two years at Brewster Hospital in Jacksonville and then taught for six years in practical nursing and diploma programs. In 1957, she married Johnnie James Stephens. Soon after she made the decision to return to school. "I was surrounded by role models who were black and who had made educational advancement, and I wanted to do so, too," Ruth said. "And I wanted a school that was very good... I chose Chapel Hill."

Ruth's family supported her decision. In 1962 she entrusted the care of her two little girls to her parents and husband and left Jacksonville, Florida to enter the master's program in nursing education and administration at the SON. At a time in which the American south was struggling with issues of race and desegregation, Ruth left home, work and family to come to a campus with few African-American faces. However, her memories of the SON and UNC-Chapel Hill, though faded, are not what one might expect.

"I realized later that it was a turbulent time when racial problems were very prevalent," Ruth said. "But I was insulated. What I remember most about Chapel Hill was my desire to do well because I had those children... and my mother, father and husband were back here [in Jacksonville] shouldering what I should have been doing.

"I remember the Old Well. And I remember the colorful trees, and I would walk to classes during the change of seasons, and they were the most beautiful colors that I can..."
remember… I remember having to eat in the cafeteria, and when I ate in the cafeteria, I mostly ate alone. But I was more an introvert than an extrovert — I don’t remember any person trying to be unkind to me for being an African-American during that time.”

Ruth was involved, socially and academically, in the life of the School. “Dean Kemble and Eloise Lewis (a faculty member) invited the class to their homes for social activities,” said Ruth. “They tried to make us bond, you see. It worked!”

“I also was inducted into Sigma Theta Tau, and that was quite an honor… quite a thrill to be invited. I was not as active as some were, but I don’t think I was isolated.”

Ruth has never seen Carrington Hall. Ground was not broken on the current home of the School of Nursing until 1968, three years after she left. When Ruth was a student at the SON, classes were still taught in the old Nurses Dorm, which is today a wing of the UNC-CH medical school. And though she’s returned to the University since graduating, she has not returned to the Nurses Dorm.

“I have been back one time… to a conference at the University. I looked around and saw that Old Well, but I couldn’t find my way back there [to the Nurses Dorm] now.”

After leaving the SON in 1965, Ruth returned to FAMU, where she served on the nursing school faculty until 1981. In 1976, she took a leave of absence in order to return again to school — this time to pursue her doctorate at Emory University. Highlights of her career include serving as interim dean of the FAMU nursing school, serving as nursing department chair at Alcorn State University in Mississippi, and thirteen years as a faculty member, coordinator, and department chair at Florida Community College in Jacksonville, from which she retired in December, 1999. Although a self-described “retirement neophyte,” it isn’t hard to imagine that Ruth, now a widow and grandmother of four, will embrace this phase of her life with the same determination with which she reached out for her academic career.

Ruth has seen many changes within the profession. “In the 45 years I’ve been in nursing, I’ve taught in a practical nursing program, a diploma program, an associate program and a BSN program. The students have gotten older: For them, nursing is a second career. And they’ve come to nursing because they’ve always had the desire for it. The differences are that these students have more factors influencing them. There is more segregation in the profession, more responsibility and accountability. Also, legal issues are greater. It has definitely changed.”

Ruth acknowledges that one thing has remained the same. “It’s wonderful to know that the tradition of excellence continues at Chapel Hill.”

George I. Rand (BSN ’73)

Like Ruth, George I. Rand came to the SON as a minority student. However, it was not only his gender that set George apart from his student colleagues. In the early 1970s, the SON began to see an increase in not only male students, but students of both genders who were choosing nursing later in life, after spending time in other careers.

In 1970, at age 31 and with a master’s degree in English from Duke University recently completed, George was preparing to pursue his Ph.D. Like Ruth, he also taught for a few years before realizing that he wanted to continue his education; however, he was no longer sure if English was the direction in which he wanted to go. Uncertain about his future, George looked around for other possibilities — Duke was just beginning a radical new program to train physicians’ assistants; there were terrific schools of medicine at both Duke and UNC-Chapel Hill. And there was nursing.

Deciding that he was too old for medical school and unsure of the future of the PA program at Duke, his decision to become a nurse was partly one of default and partly one of practicality. At a time when there were still very few males in the profession, he chose nursing because of its flexibility. “Nursing had a certain general quality and respectability,” he said. “You could walk into a city almost anywhere at that time and get a job as a staff nurse. Because I didn’t know where I wanted to live, that type of versatility was very attractive.”

A Durham resident who qualified for in-state tuition, George also recognized the value of an education at Carolina. He enrolled in the SON’s BSN program as one of only four males in a class of 105.

Going against the grain was neither frightening nor new to George.
“They would always say, ‘Oh, it’s so nice to see men in nursing. We were sort of like the class pets… And, of course, we got to meet a lot of girls!’

George Rand

who characterizes himself as “eccentric.” Instead of encountering hostility, he found that no one seemed to have trouble accepting a male as a nurse. In fact, his patients were very appreciative. “They would always say, ‘Oh, it’s so nice to see men in nursing,’” said George. “We were sort of like the class pets.

“And, of course, we got to meet a lot of girls!”

Of the four men in his class, George was the only one to successfully navigate the rigors of the program to graduate in 1973, making him the second male to graduate from SON. The distinction of first male graduate belongs to John Edwin Miltner, ’64 (MSN), who died in 1984.

Although a busy student, George also found time to act in three Playmakers Repertory Company productions while at Carolina. Perhaps his love of drama led to his interest in emergency room nursing. Upon the completion of his degree, he moved to New York City and accepted a position in Bellevue hospital’s psychiatric emergency room.

In 1975 and on the advice of Dean Lucy Conant, he entered Yale University’s family nurse practitioner program. Following stints as a faculty member at SUNY-Stonybrook and in the medical clinic at North Central Bronx Hospital, he returned to Bellevue as a nurse practitioner in the early 1980s and has been there ever since. Currently, he handles the medical clearance of psychiatric patients.

Of George’s many memories of his time at the SON, the fact that he received a good education at an affordable price has made the greatest impression on him. Although he has not been a North Carolina resident for many years, he is a regular contributor to the School, and his gifts are a way of saying thanks. “They gave me a good break on the tuition, so I do my bit,” George said.

On his two trips back to UNC-Chapel Hill since graduating, George felt the growing pains that are the reality of life at Carolina. “I wanted to see what the nursing building looked like, and I couldn’t park anywhere in the vicinity,” said George. “I circled around the block a few times and then gave up and went back to Durham.”

George and Ruth, if you come back for the Gala in November, we promise you guided tours of Carrington Hall and the Nurses Dorm. But finding you parking at Carolina is one miracle even nurses can’t perform! ☺️
1960

Opal Shepherd Hipps (BSN), ’64 (MSN) retired on May 17, 2000 from Clemson University after 23 years. She looks forward to this new phase in her life and to spending more time with her two children and two grandchildren. She will continue her practice as a FNP one day a week. She also looks forward to keeping in closer contact with friends and classmates. Keep in touch!

1964

Mary Ann Brewer (BSN) retired and broke her hip, but has bounced back and is relocating to the southern coast of North Carolina this summer.

1968

Cheryl “Cherry” Vaughn Howe (BSN) has been doing well with one kidney after recently donating the other to her husband Sam. Following a renal transplant in 1997, Sam’s remaining polycystic kidneys continued to grow and were finally removed through a midline incision in March 2000. Each kidney weighed 7 pounds! Cherry told him he’d delivered twins by C-section. Sam is doing great following his surgery — he looks much better and can breathe deeply again. Cherry stays in shape by playing tennis every chance she gets, but still finds time to put her nursing skills to use.

1970

Lynda Law Harrison (BSN) recently moved to Birmingham, Alabama and is experiencing her first taste of an empty nest. Her son, Peter, is a freshman at the University of Alabama and her daughter, Rachel, had her first child in England on December 8, 1999. Lynda is eager to reconnect with members of the class of 1970 and wishes all of you well!

1973

Janet Clark (BSN) is still working part-time at her “fun job” at Homeplace in Matthews, NC, but has had her hours cut due to an injury of her right arm. Her husband, Pat Frye, is the pharmacy manager at the Drug Emporium near their home. Janet’s son, Patrick, is a senior at UNC-CH and was recently appointed student body treasurer. Her daughter, Elizabeth was accepted at UNC-CH, but chose to attend Appalachian State University, which offered her a scholarship and their honors program, and is off to Boone in the fall. Faced with an empty nest and the end of her involvement as a school volunteer, Janet has to decide what she’ll do “when she grows up.” Teresa Weaver Foster, Debbie Kiser and Janet still enjoy four weekends a year together. “They are our escape from our everyday lives!” she says.

1974

Rebecca Dewees Olson (BSN) is currently working part-time as a research consultant. Her husband, Dick, retired as Vce Chief of the UNC Department of Family Medicine in September, 1999, and the two have returned to Sylva, NC.

1975

Catherine Crane Bouboulis (BSN) completed a Women’s Health Care Nurse Practitioner program in December, 1999, at the University of Texas at Houston and started a new job as a WHCNP in May 2000 at a Maternal/Child Clinic in the Houston, Texas area with the University of Texas Medical Branch. Catherine’s oldest daughter starts college this fall at Texas A & M University.

1980

Karen Faison-Britt (MSN) received her Ph.D. in education from Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, Virginia in May 1999. Her dissertation topic was “The Professionalization of the RN-BSN Student in a Distance Learning Program.” Karen is currently employed as an associate professor of nursing at Norfolk State University, Norfolk, Virginia.
1982

Ginger Golding Wilkins (BSN) is working part-time in the pediatric intensive care unit at Duke, where she has worked since graduation from UNC. Critical care continues to be challenging and rewarding for her, especially in pediatrics. Ginger makes Chapel Hill her home with her husband, Charles, who is a UNC pharmacy student and their three children, Matt, Sam and Emily.

1984

Leslie McDonough Sharpe (BSN), '99 (MSN) just finished the Family Nurse Practitioner program at UNC-Chapel Hill and is currently practicing at Pittsboro Family Medicine in NC. She "absolutely loves being a nurse practitioner!" and sends her greetings to her friends in the class of '84.

1986

Susan Jane Ludeman Zarzar (BSN) married Dr. Nicholas S. Zarzar (UNC Medical School, Class of '86), a psychiatrist. They have three children: Nate, 9 years, Camille, 6.5 years and Elizabeth, 1.5 years. After working in oncology at Duke from 1987 to 1990, Susan is currently at home full time with her family.

1988

Margaret Anne Moylan Marsden (BSN) and her husband, Skip, welcomed Livia Shae Marsden into the world on June 10, 1999 in Hendersonville, NC. Livia was delivered by a certified nurse-midwife, Susan Nickel. The Marsdens live in Hendersonville. Having completed a Master's in nursing at Oregon Health Sciences University in 1992, Margaret is also a certified nurse-midwife.

1992

Amy Parrish Beasley (BSN) married her high school sweetheart, Anthony, in December 1992. She gave birth to a daughter, Callie McKenzie, on May 19, 1999. Callie has one older sister, Katie, who is 5 and an older brother, Cody, who is 3. Amy works part-time as an Infection Control nurse and spends the rest of her time at home with her beautiful children.

1993

Tracie Price Dugas (BSN) completed her Master of Arts degree at New York University in May, 1999. She is a member of Sigma Theta Tau. Tracie gave birth to her first child, Christopher Raymond Dugas, on October 18, 1999.

1997

Jennifer Gandy Nichols (BSN) proudly announces the birth of their daughter, Hunter Elizabeth, born in October, 1999.

1999

Nancy Rand Rodwell (BSN) has recently moved to the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit at Brenner Children's Hospital (part of the NC Baptist Hospitals) in Winston-Salem after a year in general pediatrics at Moses Cone Hospital in Greensboro.

1996

Cindy Duke Compeggie (MSN) married her husband, Mike, on December 4, 1999 in her home in Wilmington, NC. The Compeggies now reside in Maryland where Mike is completing an anesthesia residency program with the U.S. Navy. Cindy has a temporary assignment as a "travel nurse" in the DC area until she obtains a position as a nurse practitioner.

1992

Amy Parrish Beasley (BSN) just finished the Family Nurse Practitioner program at UNC-Chapel Hill and is currently practicing at Pittsboro Family Medicine in NC. She "absolutely loves being a nurse practitioner!" and sends her greetings to her friends in the class of '84.

1997

Mitzi Searcy Willis (BSN) and her husband, Allen, proudly announce the birth of their baby girl, Alden Elizabeth, on April 2, 2000. Alden weighed 7 pounds, 6 ounces at birth and "is such a good baby!"

1999

Eileen Shinn Stough (BSN) and her husband, Bryant, proudly announce the birth of their second son, Alec Parker, born February 25, 2000. Alec weighed 9 pounds, 2 ounces and was 22 inches long.

ALUMNI AWARD Nominations

The School of Nursing Alumni Association is now taking nominations for the following alumni awards. Please nominate that colleague or friend who has meant much to the profession and the School of Nursing.

The Alumna/us of the Year Award is earmarked for that person known for their distinction in the area of nursing, either through their scholarly endeavors, their promotion of health care or their tireless service. This person must be a graduate of a program in the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Nursing.

The Honorary Alumna/us Award goes to that person who possesses distinction in the area of nursing and has demonstrated outstanding support for the School of Nursing. This person is not a graduate of any UNC-Chapel Hill School of Nursing program.

The Carrington Award for Exceptional Community Service is awarded to that person who has given remarkable service to the community, state or other beneficiary organization and has reflected favorably on the School of Nursing through their extraordinary efforts to benefit society (though not necessarily through direct nursing activity).
