

Carolina Seminars Presents: Closing the Gap in Healthcare Education

“Building collaborations: lessons learned from a pilot interprofessional course on population health”

Join us for a panel presentation that will discuss the development, collaboration, and implementation of an interprofessional course "Population Health: Interprofessional Management in a Changing Healthcare System."

Panel members will discuss helpful strategies when developing an interprofessional partnership and share lessons learned from their experience. The panel will then engage participants in a discussion about resources needed to assist faculty in interprofessional course development.

December 7th, 2015

3-4:30 pm

Fox Auditorium, Carrington Hall
School of Nursing

Fox Auditorium is located in the new building of Carrington Hall. Take the elevator down to the “L” level and the auditorium is L300, directly across from the elevator. No registration required. Contact Meg_Zomorodi@unc.edu with questions.